

Amicus POS provided Bed, Bath and Linen with the quality POS system they required following an increase in product demand!

Bed, Bath and Linen is a small company that sells a range of manchester linen in Auburn, NSW. The organisation originated as a home business with all sales information stored using a pen and paper, as the company expanded and moved to a new premises it became clear this method of sales and product management was no longer sufficient. With a larger store and increased demand for the products it became increasingly important to be able to locate the products faster and more accurately. Bed, Bath and Linen needed a system that could handle lay-bys, voucher payments, to provide a wide range of sales and product information and handle customer profiles.

“With the increase in demand it became increasingly difficult and increasingly important to be able to find products quickly. Amicus helped to locate products faster.”

Bed, Bath and Linen

- ◊ Manchester store offering a wide range of linen products.
- ◊ Providing quality customer service for over 6 years.
- ◊ Looking to expand in the future.

With the company's experience being primarily in manufacturing, Bed, Bath and Linen needed a POS system that would simplify the retail process and a company that could offer advice and mentoring as well as providing a reliable system. After researching a number of different systems Bed, Bath and Linen discovered Amicus point of sale and business management system. It was the best value for money POS system reviewed, providing a solution that was intuitive and easy to use, was visually appealing and met all the businesses needs. The major selling point for the business owner was the service received from the NBS business analyst and support staff. From the initial meeting the business owner felt comfortable with NBS and was very happy with the support they received.

"Amicus was the best value for money point of sale system I looked at."

Why Choose Amicus Retail?

Highly simplified sales process, with optional touch screens, maximises staff efficiency.

Keeps tight control of inventory and determine shrinkage quickly.

Know important product details.

Centralised pricing and product databases reduce company administrative overheads.

Completely scalable for sites and businesses of any size and hardware requirement.

Get vital information in real-time.

"Honestly the major reason, after realising that Amicus met all of my requirements, was the service I received from the business analyst and then later from the support staff. They made me feel very comfortable and offered helpful support."

