

NBS Amicus has given Cancer Council Tasmania integrated sites, lower costs and centralised inventory so they can bring the maximum contribution to the fight against cancer.

Daffodil Day, the 'slip, slop, slap' campaign, fundraising galas and sponsored events, there are a world of activities that Cancer Council Tasmania undertake to raise awareness and funds in the fight against cancer. Operating in four locations around Tasmania, they have integrated their retail operations to streamline stock control, provide easy to use point of sale for volunteers and improve the retail bottom line of the organisation.

Cancer Council Tasmania

- ◇ Strong volunteer base for retail operations and events
- ◇ Raise funds to support the fight against cancer
- ◇ Part of Cancer Council Australia
- ◇ Over 50 employees state-wide

"The easy to use sales screens are excellent for our volunteers who might only work one day a week. They learn it quickly and can use the system as well as someone who uses it every day"

The multi-site capabilities of NBS Amicus mean that Cancer Council Tasmania can now operate with a centralised warehouse from their Hobart store, reducing operational costs in both money and time. Centralised reporting also means that performance, sales tracking and state-wide stock information is now available for the entire network from any location, greatly improving the cancer council's ability to always provide the resources needed for whatever activity they are undertaking.

Staffed primarily by volunteers, it was vital that a point of sale system be easy to learn and uniform throughout their stores. NBS Amicus, with its intuitive sales screens and simplified sales path, allows Cancer Council Tasmania to minimise training costs and time. Volunteers are now able to serve the organisations clients quicker and more efficiently than ever before, improving customer service and increasing turnover.

Why Choose NBS Amicus?

Centralise stock in a warehouse to supply any number of retail stores

Centralised pricing and product databases keep administration costs down

Integrate individual locations into one system across any distance

Enterprise wide reporting provides decision makers with quality business intelligence

“Centralised stock control and multi-site reporting is instrumental in helping us maximise sales, keep all our stores stocked and keep informed and in control of the states retail operations”

Operating strong for over three years, Neotechnology are proud to be a part of Cancer Council Tasmania’s work to achieve their mission to minimise the impact of cancer on all Tasmanians.